HON. CALEB POWERS
Who was nominated by an overwhelming majority by the Republicans of the Old Eleventh District for re-election to Congress.

BACK INTO THE G. O. P. FOLD

Mr. I. E. Byrley, heretofore prominent in Progressive party circles in Kentucky, has "come home to stay." He will this year vote the Republican ticket. Mr. Byrley, who is the Eastern Kentucky manager for the Security Mutual Life Insurance Company, was in Lexington today and in a talk with a Leader man, said: "I have heretofore voted the Progressive ticket, and I still adhere to the principles expressed in their platform, but I think that we can incorporate them in the Republican party, and so I have returned 'home' to stay. I wish that every Republican in Kentucky would reflect on the present situation in Kentucky and vote according to what he thinks is right, and for the best interests of the State and Nation. I am sure if he did this he would not be lead astray, and be so foolish as to waste his vote for the Progressive nominee who has no hope or chance of election, and thereby defeat the plans of our Right Hon. Percy Haly. It seems to me like Mr. Haly knew whereof he spoke when he stated that there would be a Progressive nominee to make Mr. Beckham's victory sure. His prophecy is fulfilled, but it remains to be seen whether or not the Progressives will be led by a lot of self-styled Progressive leaders who are not interested in the establishment of Progressive party measures, but otherwise are more interested in getting a letter from the National Progressive headquarters in New York commending them for their devotion to the party, regardless of the interests of the State in which they live and in which they should be vitally interested. Kentucky has its own problems, and the Progressives of New York do not know, nor do they care about things more important than the continuation of party organization. These men seek not to rule, they have no hope of this, but to ruin, is their motive. Then why should any Progressive tie up to a program like this is more than I can understand. Kentucky needs a Senator in Washington who will properly represent her best interests and I for one intend to help to elect such a man."—Lexington Leader.

PELLAGRA

State Board of Health to Meet in Pineville, Ky., to Discuss Disease

Bowling Green, Ky.
August 3, 1914.

Gentlemen:

Reports from health officers in widely scattered sections of the State indicate a large increase in the number of cases of Pellagra. The State Board of Health, at the suggestion of a large number of local health officials, has called a second conference for the study of Pellagra, together with a conference of County and City Health Officers, at Pineville, Ky., for August 18, 19 and 20th. During this conference the laws enacted at the recent session of the Legislature for prevention of blindness will also be discussed and steps will be taken looking to making them effective.

Hundreds of physicians from all parts of the South will be present at the meeting.

Very truly yours,
A. T. McCormack,
Secretary.

Rev. E. R. Overley at Ruggles Campgrounds.

Ruggles Campgrounds, July 31st, 1914.—Education was discussed this morning in a very able address by Rev. E. R. Overley who is here representing Union College. Campers at Ruggles are always glad to hear brother Overley. They are pleased at the rapid stride he has made in the ministry. All were surprised and delighted with his address this morning. As introductory to this address Dr. Buntin, who is connected with the Conference Board of Education, gave some interesting facts concerning Union College. He showed why our Methodists should support this fine school. Rev. Overley has secured some students while with us who will be found in Barbourville at the opening of Union College for the next term.—[The Daily Independent, Mayville, Ky.]

MORE FROM THE UN-SCIENTIFIC SCIENTIST

Scotty is still learning

San Diego Exposition, July 1914.
Dear Herb:—

Did you get that "logos of ethnons" stuff that I put over in my last? Good—what? I was going to have it printed in Greek, but I didn't have the nerve—and the printer didn't have the type—so I refrained. I looked it up afterwards lest I had made a mistake, but I was right. Ethnology is a sort of a gummy (if that's the way you spell it) expression. It comes from a couple of Greek words—it can't help that; of course—and they mean the study of you and me beginning from the time "when you were a tadpole and I was a fish in the Paleozoic days," as the poet hath it. At least that's a fairly liberal translation of what they mean.

However, I don't intend to spend any more language on that—no sense in lingering upon a subject after one has exhausted it. But I must tell you all about Archaeology, which is in the same class with the other ology. I said they were cousins. They are more than that. Eth and Arch are brother and sister—tho I'm not sure which is which as to gender. But Arch is the study of the relics of the early races of mankind—you might not think it, but it's a fact. I nosed around on the quiet for a while trying to find out. Then I asked the Chief's stenographer what the—I mean I asked her what it signified. She told me that right off the bat, but to make sure of it somebody dug up a dictionary. One of those dinky, near-leather-covered ones that you get for some 19 cents in real money and about 40,000 coupons that you cut serialism out of a daily paper. I got one that way once. Got a book of songs too—the oldest songs in the world. The paper said they were songs that never grow old, vintage of the past century, you know. Vintage suggests wine, and—well, anyway, if I had been writing the title on the cover of the song book I'd have said "Songs that Improve with Age." But—as I was going to say when I ran into that open switch—I was agreeably surprised to find that the unpretentious dictionary was a perfectly good book—it said just the same thing that the girl said—minus the smile.

One of the things one never can get back is wasted energy. I figure that I'm out about four dollars' worth, because while I was fussing around with those tomes—tomes, I mean—and dictionaries, et cetera (I spell it that way since I broke in to the highbrow class) I could just as well have learned all about the subject under discussion by strolling into the Archaeological Exhibit at this San Diego Exposition and just rubbing. Really that's how I finally did get wise!

You know Baby Eleanor, reading the funnies in the Sunday supplements, has just as much fun as if she could read the printed matter. Me too! I don't need the tomes when I can see the exhibit. Come on in and soak up some knowledge. Some of these subjects seem a little heavy at first, but really it's easy to grasp them in this atmosphere. I'm there with the bells on now, old top, and you can quote me with impunity or verbally—either way—and if you don't understand Archaeology thoroughly yet, just ask me for any thing that I have overlooked.

Yours for the archives of mankind,
SCOTTY.

CHINA'S NEW WIRELESS STATIONS

Peking.—Construction work is now under way on the four wireless telegraph stations which China is preparing to establish in Hupeh, Kwangtung, Chekiang and Kiangai. Sites for three of the four wireless telegraph stations are under survey. The one in Kwangtung is already in operation. Gen. Chen-yi, the assistant chief of the general staff, is superintending the work of surveying, and the following places are under consideration for the Chekiang station: Chao-pao-shan in Ning-po; Fei-yun-tao in Wenchow, and Haimen in Tai-chow.
